

Reflections of the Active U.S. Federal Law Case Times

I, Joseph Mallon, the one who made and has an active law case in Federal Court right now versus the United States, being vicariously liable for Trump and the Trump Administration of the White House in Washington, D.C., have been very patient. I communicated to the Trump administration in the current term since January 2025, and then on October 2025 I made an SF-95 form (Standard Form 95, SF-95). I then went through more than six months with the SF-95 form active before making a law case in U.S. Federal Court. The Federal Court issued a summons on the United States (with vicarious liability for Trump and the Trump administration) and gave the United States 60 days to respond (since 05-15-2026 to 07-14-2026). I can be responded to and worked with at any time up to within 60 days, but the United States cannot go beyond 60 days without a response directly relevant to the active law case (Mallon v. United States, cv-02712).

I have to wait another 60 days for the Federal Court to do something or exert its power and authority on the situation of this law case. At least, that is the way the circumstances stand right now. Also, though as said, I have already been through a long time, and I declare I have substantial rights all along the way through the next 60 days. If I am not responded to or worked with in the next 60 days, everything I declare and have already declared will have to be fully enforced on United States federal law levels. That is not just after the 60 days but is anything and everything through these present 60 days, too. I am just anticipating the U.S. Federal Court's assistance on fuller capacities if going beyond the 60 days without a reply from the (vicarious) United States.

On this day of 05-30-2026, I reject any fund the Trump administration or family makes by themselves and to be administered with any control, power, or authority of theirs when the United States is not prepared for that and has many areas requiring before any such Federal fund. There were a couple of these funds mentioned recently. One was for reparations to Iran. I am winning. I do not have terms dictated to me, and I dictate the terms. I am the one who successfully and meritoriously made the United States Federal Court law case, and I am the one who has the case established and successful.

Considering the United States nation, rebuilding Ukraine or the embattled Russian area has not been done yet. Rebuilding in Gaza has not been done yet. The Japan nuclear wastewater situation has not been taken care of yet. The United States economy has not been straightened out yet since 2020, and the U.S. economy was requiring to be straightened out before more uncalled for expenses were added on. I myself was present before these latest funds additions and had plenty of material presented and active with the United States, including involving substantial amounts of money. I cannot approve any funds going in these other directions before or without going in the directions there first and validly requiring due and overdue allocations of attention, efforts, and funds.

The situation of Iran is known and understood, as is already mentioned in some of my previous materials. Iran can be let to have any funds that are already Iran's but have been stopped or kept from going to Iran because of sanctions. Sanctions can be lifted from Iran, according to the judgment that may be fully secured with this current active federal law case, Mallon v. United States, 26-cv-02712. Beyond this legal finding concerning funds for Iran, the United States as a government can itself take care of its duties and responsibilities concerning Iran. The United States government can make its own funds for any purposes, such as where there is a just cause. The United States government does not need Trump, the Trump administration, or anyone associated or involved to make or operate a fund for any cause.

The United States government is not ready to just arbitrarily allocate billions or trillions of dollars overseas. The exact causes have to be more so worked on and specified after the intentional intellectual work has been done through a long enough amount of time. The United States currently has to get its currency of dollars and cents stabilized and advance the global currency of God's Miracle Cross crosses and faces. These areas have to build up and advance before anything else can be taken care of, so first things have to be first. There can be a building up, and a working on the matters involved can be done, but everything needs to be in its right order and with its justification without any pushing out of anything else.

Considering the Strait of Hormuz, in the Persian Gulf, the normal situation for sovereign countries is to have water rights within 12 nautical miles of the mainland (legalclarity.org). The water property line starts at the low tide, or an appropriate straight estimated line, water level, referred to as a baseline, along the coast. If the Strait of Hormuz is within the waterway rights of particular countries, they have rights to governance of those waters and skies above these waters, which means they should be able to benefit, enjoy, use, control, safeguard those waterways. Foreign vessels can go through those waters but cannot cause any harm. There can be agreements, and these agreements can be mutually beneficial to parties involved, as is the way of good business. There has to be fairness and a mutually agreeable situation for all parties involved, and then everyone is adequately happy. From 12 to 24 nautical miles of the baseline waters (Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, 2026), the coastal country can exercise governance, although foreign ships have rights to pass through. The next area goes up to 200 nautical miles out and is designated as for economic development of the local country, although the local country does not have exclusive or sovereign rights fully (Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, 2026).

The United States does not need all the oil that comes from going through the Strait of Hormuz, but the world does. Many other products are affected, and the costs and availability of various products, including especially gasoline, are affected. The lifestyle and economy of everywhere in the region of the Strait of Hormuz area is affected, much more so than the United States. The best situation is to settle everything in a civilized manner over the continuing times of the next years, which will be necessary.

There are continuing necessities and rights, earnings, and merits that do not just come from now, today, the immediate times. Some things have been around and enduring for a long time. There are areas that have to be taken care of before other things can be done, but if those areas are taken care of, like they are supposed to be, then more can be done, and a much better situation is enabled and with greater potential.

I say all this, and much more, but I am not dealt with yet. I have gone through more than the past 30 years before I have been dealt with. A while of dealing with me will be necessary for much that is in these and many more directions I expressed about. Right now, in the immediate times, as I previously said, I have an active United States Federal Court law case against the United States vicariously liable for Trump and the Trump administration. These next 60 days are the first round of that law case. The United States vicariously for Trump and the Trump administration does something concerning this law case, or without the other party, the Court enforces all in my 80-page complaint.

I make these statements on this day of 05-30-2026, which is before the 60 days have passed, but with fully enforceable authority as of after the 60 days if there is not anything before then.
